Artist statement:

I've enjoyed photography ever since I was a wee lass, taking photos with my point-and-shoot camera in the 1970s. My dad was great at encouraging my photography talent, having me help him in the darkroom and buying me cameras. He's quite a talented photographer, and that's something we did together. As a kid, I took photos of sunsets and people I knew. Now, I enjoy taking photos of interesting compositions, colors and mostly storm clouds. These are just a few of my storm photos. I just love the feeling I get when I hear thunder. It's a powerful, peaceful feeling, and I like to convey that in my photos.

Artist statement:

I love art. I work on comics in New York City for a variety of companies/artists, and I even mentor someone. I do the coloring, while other artists do the penciling and inking. That's how the comic industry works. I studied under Raymond and Patrice Olais at Newton High School and went on to Chicago at the Arti Institute there. I've learned a lot along the way.
